In the article, “The Caenorhabditis elegans unc-49 Locus Encodes Multiple Subunits of a Heteromultimeric GABA Receptor,” by B. A. Bamber et al., which appeared on pages 5348–5359 of the July 1, 1999 issue, the sixth sentence in the abstract should read, “This organization suggests that the three UNC-49 subunits (UNC-49A, UNC-49B, and UNC-49C) are coordinately regulated and therefore might coassemble to form a heteromultimeric GABA receptor.”
