Cover picture: Fluorescent micrograph of neurons from the rat somatosensory cortex (Lamina IV) stained with Tor 23, a monoclonal antibody that binds the surface of a discrete population of CNS neurons. The pia is towards the top of the micrograph. Immunoreaction product is distributed all along the perimeter of somata and their proximal processes. Micrograph provided by D.T. Stephenson and P.D. Kushner from their paper (pp. 3035–3056, this issue).
